The Progress of Protection By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER.

"Why should the earthly remains of a beloved departed placed in a wooden outside case, when metal or the 'Campbell Cast Stone Underground Vaulte' are available at little cost?' said Mr. Frank E. Campbell to a visitor who wondered at the advancements made by Mr. Campbell's institution in recent years.

"Everybody believes in protection.
"If protection in life, why not after Death? "Outward protection protects at the same time your peace of

"Come to The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, and look at the progress 'Protection' produced. You will see beautiful things only, nothing that pould offend even the most sensitive."

of their number each conceived as being a wholly possible fate for himself—in fact, quite his probable fate. If such a thing could happen in broad dayight what frightful thing might not fall to their lot when night and enshrouded them in her mantle of darkness. They trembled in anticipation.

The white girl in their midst was no less myslined than they; but far less moved, since sudden death was the most merciful fate to which site that it found the girl entirely unprepared, and what would have tack that it found the girl entirely apprepared, and what would have happened had not a warrior interfered may only be guessed. And then Usanga, noting the interruption, came lurching forward to question.
